ALMA (STONE) KIDDER

Many in the community were saddened by the death on Jan. 16 of Alma Drayton (Stone) Kidder of 215 Crosby st., the wife of James W. Kidder, former chairman of the Arlington School Committee.

She was former Girl Scout commissioner, active in Red Cross and the Community Chest. She was a past president of the Women's Aid Association of Symmes Hospital, a member of the Mystic-side circle of the First Baptist church, and, at the time of her death, corresponding secretary of the Arlington Woman's Club.

AH Six Tops Stoneham To Stretch G. B. I. Lead

The Arlington high school hockey team, still leading the G.B.I. league, captured its eighth decision in nine outings Saturday at the Arena by thumping Stoneham, 3-1.

Paul Aiken paced the attack with two goals and Jack Allen notched the other tally.

The locals bounced into an early lead when Aiken converted an Allen rebound and hit the left side of the net at 9:45 of the first period.

Stoneham tied it up in the second stanza when Steve Camuso batted in his own rebound after Bill Clark made a nifty save on his first attempt.

But a minute later, Allen scored after an Aiken rebound and just three minutes later, Allen picked up his second goal on a 20 footer after outmaneuvering a Stoneham defenseman.

The win, combined with a Belmont loss to Cambridge Latin, gave the locals a three point budge in the standings.

AHS Title Hopes Jolted By Loss To Brockton

Arlington high school's hopes for the Suburban League basketball championship received a severe jolt when the local five was routed by Brockton Tuesday at the Junior High West.

Brockton's 52-38 win knocked Arlington from first place into a second place tie in the League standings.

The locals had nobody to blame but themselves.

After holding the favored visitors on even terms in the first period, Arlington scored only seven points in the second stanza, and seven more in the third.

Brockton's stronger front men consistently controlled both boards, making scores the first shot was Arlington's only hope. And this the Red and Gray couldn't do, ringing the rim time after time.

Brockton was too strong for an Arlington team having its worst day of the year. Actually, the visitors can be taken by AHS on any given day... but Tuesday wasn't that day.

For the record, only one Arlington boy hit for double figures. Leo Scully picked up ten points, but seven of them came in the first period.

The loss overshadowed Arlington's big win over Rindge Friday at Cambridge.

The Red and Gray pinned a decisive 64-54 defeat on the Technicians on that occasion.

The locals took a 13-11 lead in the first period, stretched it to 33-26 at the half and maintained their advantage the rest of the way.

Crews Install New System

Arlington Civil Defense radio men, George Davison and Paul Haire, met with CD Operations Chief, Kenneth A. Cameron and Charles Johnson, first-aid unit chief, to culminate months of planning on a new communications system.

The radio operators have provided excellent communication for emergencies in the past and are a key group in the CD disaster plan. Practically all the equipment used is personally owned by the radio men and their services have been coordinated by CD Director, Lieutenant Philip A. Sweeney.

The Arlington First-Aid disaster crew was organized two years ago by the Red Cross First-Aid director and trained by Charles Johnson, chief instructor of First-Aid. This unit is trained to operate on a mobile basis, or to establish medical base units with the hospital equipment stored in town.

A study of disaster work has shown that good, unhampered communication is essential in disaster work. With Arlington's needs in mind a limited area radio service has been planned and will be operative within two months.

Six radio transmitters on the two meter band operated by ten experienced operators will be on call to accompany any disaster team to its location. On location it will be in constant touch with a headquarters unit. The headquarters unit will be coordinated by the Civil Defense director.

This new system will leave the present six meter radio system free to supplement the police and fire radio as has been successfully done in the past. It will enable the disaster crews to obtain information and centralize information without interference.

On The Bench

With Milt Schindt

One of the most pleasant afternoons I've spent in a long time was in Detroit.

The Bruins kept their unblemished record on Marlboro's weekly national hockey telecast. But they did it in such a convincing fashion I had time to enjoy the game rather than being a seat squirmier until the final buzzer.

Bruins overpowered the Red Wings, 8-2 and of the eight goals, I believe we had four or five started with shots from the point. Then the man was stationed in front of the net ready to tip in the shot or score on the rebound.

Many times before in this column I have pointed out the parallel between sports. I've tried to show how in many ways basketball and hockey are alike in strategy and defense.

Red Auerbach, the Celtics coach, and I have talked about this many times. He tells me he's learned some plays watching hockey and I've done the same watching basketball.

Take this strategy of the Bruins Saturday for example. We fed the point men regularly in the attacking zone and they shot the puck in at the net where we had a player stationed either to tip in the shot or get the rebound.

That's much the same as feeding the backcourt men like Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman and having them shoot from the outside. Then the big men like Bill Russell and Tom Heinsohn are stationed under the basket for a tip in or to grab the rebound.

It was stressed to the Bruins' point men to try to shoot the puck through the opposition. I pointed out that when a point man put his head down and tried to drive the movement of the opposition with the result an opponent would get in the way to stop the shot and get a break-away.

The idea is just to get the puck through the maze of players. The shot doesn't have to be hard, only low.

The point men did just that and if my recollection is correct Don McKenney whose all-around play, incidentally, earned him the Marlboro "player of the week" award, got two goals, Dutch Reibel and Johnny Bucyk each one.

Where the defense makes a mistake when hemmed in by the other club, is neglecting to have the wingmen three quarters of the way out of the zone to stop the passes back to the attacking pointmen. The center also should play in deep helping out the defensemen.

If the defensive wings are playing positional hockey and are in the right place, they're ready to intercept passes and get breakaways.

But if the defensive wings are in too deep, the attacking player with possession of the puck can beat one or two men and slip the pass back to the point man unhindered.

It's one thing to tell the players to play positional hockey. It's another to have them do it. I know from experience.

When the opposition has you hemmed in, the wingmen are always anxious to help out the defensemen and that puck seems to have a magnet attached as it attracts the defenders to the puck-carrier.

You can't let that happen on defense or the roof will fall in.

Congressman Rogers In New Suite

Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers has moved her Washington office.

With the beginning of the 86th Congress, the Democratic Speaker of the House, the Honorable Sam Rayburn of Texas, called in Congressman Rogers and assigned to her the best Congressional suite of offices in the House Office Building.

Speaker Rayburn told Mrs. Rogers he was "delighted to assign this office to you and that you greatly deserve it." The number of the suite is 1136 in the New House Office Building.

During her career in Congress, Congressman Rogers has moved her office only twice.

In 1933, she moved from the Old House Office building into the new building when it was opened for use. At that time she moved into a suite on the 7th floor, No. 1725.

Mrs. Rogers chose this suite at that time because of the excellent view she had of the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial. Congressman Rogers stayed in this location until the move a few days ago into the choice office suite assigned to her by Speaker Rayburn.

"I am extremely pleased Speaker Rayburn assigned to me this very fine suite of offices. Having more space, my office staff and myself will be able to carry on the work for our district more comfortably and more efficiently. "In addition, I still have a fine view of the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, and also the Capitol Building. When anyone from the District comes to Washington for a visit, either for business or pleasure, I hope they will pay me a visit and see this excellent suite of offices so thoughtfully assigned to me by Speaker Rayburn," Mrs. Rogers said.

EDITORIAL

A Very Good Bet!

Nothing stirs the nobler nature of mankind more than the sight of a child who is crippled or otherwise grievously handicapped.

It was the plight of such children doomed to a lifetime of suffering or constant discomfort that led to the establishment of the National Foundation. As its first mission it took upon itself what seemed to many to be the impossible task of finding the way to stop Polio.

In less than 20 years, with the magnificent financial support of the March of Dimes, the National Foundation made the impossible come true.

From the laboratory of Dr. Jonas Salk, one of the scientists backed by the National Foundation, came the famous polio vaccine. The Foundation thus became the first voluntary public health agency in the world to accomplish what it set out to do.

Now the Foundation has set itself other "impossible" tasks.

It has expanded its already vast research program and is aiming to discover the causes, cures or preventives for the nation's foremost crippling, arthritis, for birth defects and for virus diseases.

Arthritis now claims 11,000,000 victims in the U. S., including little children, and costs the nation one billion five hundred million dollars in care, treatment and loss of production. At least 250,000 babies are born in this country every year with serious and often lifelong birth defects it is said. Virus diseases disable millions of men, women and children for varying lengths of time, too.

The aim of the National Foundation is certainly humane and unquestionably admirable. There is no worldly goal higher than the end of physical suffering especially among children.

Furthermore, there is every reason to expect that the National Foundation, having once achieved victory, will do so again — with the help of the MARCH OF DIMES.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

(An Advocate feature in which readers are invited to express their views and opinions. This feature is printed every week to give an indication of the thinking of you, the public.)

To the Editor,

I am in agreement with the writer from East Arlington in regards to the "drag strip" racing on Mass. ave, East Arlington (Jan. 15).

I for one wish they would do something about it. Twice in the past year my daughter, ten years old, was crossing at Lake st. on the red and yellow light when cars came through the light and, but for the Grace of God, she wasn't hit. I personally saw this and I only regret that I didn't have the presence of mind to take their numbers.

I was brought up and am doing the same with my daughter, that the red and yellow is for pedestrians. It was always my belief that this is the same all over the country. Even so both of these vehicles were of Mass. registration. You can imagine the look on the face of a child when a car comes bearing down on her. I have even told her to wait a few minutes after it changes to make sure no car starts up.

I will give credit to the police in East Arlington who patrol day and night and say they do stop some speeders. It just seems they are down the opposite end of their beats when something does happen. Is it we need more policemen or do we need more lights? I would say the first because there are too many drivers who have no regard for lights.

I only hope something can be done about this situation before we have more deaths.

Name withheld by request.

By MAT

This is only Jan. 22! Yet, we have never witnessed such finality of opinion among the "top echelon of political observers."

Let's view the race for Town Clerk. As of a week ago, it was announced Tim Buckley would run. With this, many have said "That's it!"

Now, while Mr. Buckley is a powerful candidate, we do not agree with the above conclusion. First of all, we could have agreed 5 or 6 years ago while Tim was climbing the ladder of veterans' affairs but, when you reach the upper strata, there are too many who would like to see you a rung or two lower. Second, what, Town office has Mr. Buckley ever run for — including Town Meeting member? There is plenty of difference between the nod of appointive officialdom and majority vote by the electorate.

Third, as to Mr. Buckley, there is always the question of how many people of the same name should represent this town, whether they are related or not? Currently, we have a Buckley as State Representative, Selectman and Park Commissioner. Now, it is proposed we have a Buckley as Town Clerk! It is a good name, a magical one—but, we think our readers will admit: what's wrong with the name of Smith?

Then there's Ann Mahon, the present Assistant Town Clerk. She was elevated to this office by the beloved "Jimmy" Golden. Of one thing we are sure, the late Town Clerk Golden would never give a title to any member of his staff which was not deserved. Thus, we feel that qualifications of the present Assistant will not be entirely brushed aside.

Another, and proven, powerful candidate for the Office of Town Clerk is Franklin W. ("Pud") Hurd. We are sure that the readers of this column will remember when MAT said, "Never, never forget the power of the fighting Hurd". As of 1959, we point out that Selectman Hurd is on 3rd base with the tie-breaking run. Whether to call for a squeeze bunt or a slow smash between 1st and 2nd base is a problem. But, the Hurd side is still in the ball game.

For this race, there are many others with considerable power, too.

As we see it (Jan. 22nd), take it from MAT, do not place your bets too heavily —yet! We say this, particularly, when we believe several of the thirteen candidates will pull out in favor of this or that more powerful candidate.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The vital importance of having a strong, spiritual foundation will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Truth" is the Golden Text from Deuteronomy (32:34): "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (481:8-9): "Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity."

Scriptural selections to be read include the following (Psalms 18:30,31): "As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the Lord is tried: he is a buckler to all those that trust in him. For who is God save the Lord? or who is a rock save our God?"

Institute Calls Cuts 'Phony'

Governor Furcolo's high-powered publicity department has done another good job ballyhooing his annual pre-budget economy drive. But it should have checked with last year's clippings, according to the Legislative Research Institute.

The fact is the Governor is running far behind 1958. A year ago he boasted that he had slashed $44 million out of departmental budgets. His most recent claims totalled only $23 million.

To the unthinking, and the vast majority of Massachusetts voters must be bunched as such, the Furcolo claims ring true. But those who keep close tabs on the State House never lost sight of the little his three-shell financial game.

Here is a typical example of Furcolo budget-slashing. After denying most of his department heads all phony requests for additional and unneeded help, he soothes their injured feelings by authorizing them to increase their budgets from 10 per cent up.

This year the Department of Commerce asked for an increase of 29 in its working force and a budget of $1,195,000. The Governor grabbed a lot of headlines by turning down the new jobs and slashing $200,000 off the Department of Commerce budget. During the Herter administration, this particular budget reached a peak of $561,000.

Under Furcolo, it has jumped to $977,715 and, despite his cutting-to-the-bone, it will be $97,285 more during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

All down the line of state departments, this same game is being played to receive the long suffering taxpayers. Working forces will remain at present levels but every state department will have at least 10 per cent more to spend starting July 1.

While the Commonwealth was only on the fringe of bankruptcy, such wild extravagance was possible, as our billion dollar stat debt attests. But now the day of reckoning has arrived and ruthless measures must be taken immediately.

With both branches of the legislature now in Democratic hands, the biggest tax program in the Commonwealth's history is assured. Furcolo insists that $90 million in additional revenue must be raised if present services are to be maintained. And most fiscal experts agree with him.

Behind the Business Scene

by REYNOLDS KNIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — The business recovery is young and vigorous, and its momentum bids fair to carry through most of 1959. But its pace could be slowed by any of several doubtful areas.

Rising personal income and bright prospects for consumer demand can stimulate housing and the durables — autos, appliances and home furnishings—but whether the consumer will part with his money as readily as he did in boom-year 1955, for example, remains to be seen.

One of the big question marks is the labor picture. Union demands traditionally stiffen as recovery follows recession. Many observers now take a midsummer steel strike for granted. But strikes or no, the wage-cost-price pressures will be felt all along the line.

Meanwhile, business will continue to replenish inventory, and federal, state and local government spending is expected to resist economy moves.

GAINS FORECAST — Continued gains for the metal can industry in 1959 are forecast as demand continues strong for most food and non-food containers.

William C. Stolk, president of American Can Company, estimates that metal can output this year will increase about two per cent — to approximately 41.8 billion units compared with 41 billion in 1958. It will just about equal the all-time record output achieved in 1956.

Indications are, Stolk says, that most fruit, vegetable and meat packs this year will be larger than last. He also foresees gains in packs of beverage, lard, shortening and pet foods. Beer can production should exceed the record 8.4 billion containers turned out in 1958.

GRAIN STORAGE UP — The year should see a further rise in wheat exports and a continuing expansion by the nation's private grain trade of storage facilities to handle farm surpluses.

The trade has been making dramatic progress in taking over from the government the export merchandising of corn, oats, barley and other feed grains. This step, coupled with a previous change to free-market handling of wheat, has greatly strengthened farm prices and helped raise 1958 exports well above Department of Agriculture estimates, according to Cargill, Incorporated. Cargill is among the nation's largest handlers and processors of farm products.

MacMillan said wheat exports now promise to total from 425 to 450 million bushels at the end of the 1958-59 crop year in June. This compares with last June's forecast of 400 million bushels.

AUTOMATION OUTLOOK — An improved economy, heavy emphasis on research, probable increases in defense spending, and an upward swing in capital outlays by industry should in 1959 stimulate still wider interest in automation.

This presages increased activity for industries producing the tools of automation, says Henry F. Dever, vice president of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company, a leader in industrial instrumentation.

An encouraging factor in the year ahead, according to Dever, is the continuing trend through industry toward more complete and centralized control of operations.

NEW MILITARY GEAR — Companies engaged in electronic systems development for the military are constantly being called upon to adapt their production to the newest concepts of defense and offense.

A good example is Hughes Aircraft, a company with a production background of more than 11,000 electronic armament and control systems and thousands of Falcon missiles — each a system in itself. Now, as the new year opens, Hughes is moving into a modern new plant in California where ground radar systems are to be manufactured.

Memorable Building Bites Dust

The wrecker's big metal sphere thudded into the walls of famed old Mechanics Building last week sounding the death knell for the red brick, barn-like structure that housed activities, some solemn and some rowdy, for generations of New Englanders.

Carroll M. Shanks, president of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, gave the go-ahead and the huge ball, swung by a crane, started demolishing a milestone by demolishing a landmark.

The landmark, venerable but dingy Mechanics Building, must make way for the multi-million dollar Prudential Center. Sentimental New Englanders regard the demolition sorrowfully — but understand that Mechanics' wake, funeral and burial is necessary.

The thud of hammers and grind of crowsbars, scattering the happy memories and ghosts of 78 years, provided a unique requiem.

Mayor John B. Hynes of Boston summed up the feelings of many when he said recently:

"Even as Mechanics Building starts to disappear into the mists and legends of Boston's storied past, the great Prudential Center will probe into the heavens as a symbol of the new Boston to come."

"With its magnificent 52-story tower building, its six apartment houses, its 25-story hotel, its shops and stores, its plazas and skating rink, not to speak of the municipal auditorium to be built within the area, the Prudential Center will be the finest of its kind in the nation."

Since it was built in 1881, the old structure, sprawling a full block in historic Back Bay has pulsated with the life of the area it served. It was the scene of the world's first automobile show. U. S. presidents have pleaded there for reelection.

Labor leaders and politicians, even nuns, have conferred beneath its enormous arched timber trusses. Circus, concerts and conventions; flower, sports and animal shows — each has added its color and flavor over the years.

Youngsters have thrilled to Ted Williams' fly-casting skill and their granddads yelled themselves hoarse as the great Paavo Nurmi proved his right to track immortality as he thundered around Mechanics' oddly-banked track.

Strangler Lewis, Gus Sonnenberg, Londo and the Garibaldis — these were among the greats of wrestling who knew Mechanics.

Many of the greats of boxing evoked cheers, and boos, there. Gene Tunney, Harry Greb, Jack Sharkey, Mickey Walker, Kid Chocolate, Willie Pep, Max Baer, Young Stribling, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Dundee, Kid Gavilan, the original Joe Walcott—strutted their stuff.

For oddsies, it's hard to top the time boxer Pal Reed was dropped with a right to the chin and suffered, strangely, a broken ankle!

Or the time Jack Malone lost to Frank Moody and fulfilled a promise to jump off the Charlestown Bridge fully clothed!

The late James Michael Curley — governor, mayor and congressman — added to Mechanics' legend. He was discussing newspapers there one night when a heckler shouted: "How about the North Boston Bugle?" Curley, past master of the squelch, waited for complete attention, then rebuked in his golden tones: "Sir, I was talking about NEWSPAPERS!"

$125,000,000 For Aging

Federal, state, and local governments in Massachusetts together spend over $125,000,000 annually on programs for older people and these costs will probably continue to rise.

This statement is made in a 300-page report on problems and needs of older people made to Governor Furcolo by the Governor in 1957.

The report points out that Massachusetts has special reason to be concerned about the problems of older citizens for the following reasons:

1. Massachusetts ranks second among the states in the percentage of the population age 50 and over.

2. Massachusetts ranks 4th in the percentage of the population age 60 and over.

3. About 500,000 people, or one person in ten, in Massachusetts are age 65 or older, and this number will rise by 1970 to 600,000.

The report found that over 40 federal agencies, 18 state agencies, and 11 local governmental agencies provide services to the aging. These services range from Social Security and Old Age Assistance to public housing for the elderly, health programs, and job counseling for older workers.

The report made many specific recommendations for programs to aid the aging, placing special emphasis on "anticipatory" activities to help the aging help themselves, such as vocational counseling, and training and more adequate voluntary health insurance programs for the aging.

The course is designed to provide basic branch training for newly-commissioned officers.

Lieutenant Gray, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, was graduated from Arlington High School in 1951 and the University of New Hampshire in 1953.

He was formerly a civil engineer with Metcalf & Eddy in Boston.

Dog Tales

By Mearry Diei

WHAT YOUR DOG SHOULD KNOW

When the dog no longer fights collar and leash, he is ready for lessons in leading. Most trainers recommend that the dog walk at your left heel, his chest approximately parallel to your left leg.

Grasp the end of the leash firmly in the right hand and take up most of the slack with the left, leaving a little slack between your left hand and the dog. Now give the command "Heel" and start walking. If the dog walks along, praise him. If not, give a sharp jerk with the left hand and walk on. If the dog now walks along, praise him, but if he doesn't you are going to have to drag him along for a short distance, being careful not to overdo this to the point of choking the dog. After a short drag, stop and start all over.

It may take a few days of patient handling, with the training limited to 15 or 20 minutes a day, but before too long the dog will walk right along with you. If he tries to plunge ahead, bring him back to the heel position with a sharp jerk and possibly a light rap on the nose.

After the dog has been leading satisfactorily for several days, he is ready to be taught the command that may some day save his life—to come when called.

Attach a strong cord 20 or 30 feet long to the collar and station yourself in the yard, allowing the dog to roam at will to the end of the cord. Then attract his attention by calling his name and give the command "Come" or "Come here."

Chances are the dog will respond the first time or two, then start ignoring you. What you want him to do is come every time you command it, not just when he feels like it. Praise him when he does respond, but when he doesn't, it's time to show him you mean it by giving the cord a sharp jerk. If he doesn't come when jerked, drag him toward you.

A few days of this training, again limited to periods of 15 or 20 minutes, will convince him that he must come when called and eventually he will respond without the cord.

These general rules should be observed:

1. Make the training as much fun for yourself and the dog as possible. Be patient and praise him when he obeys.

2. Don't punish him for disobeying before he has learned what you want him to do. If he disobeys after having learned, scold him or punish him lightly.

3. If on any given day you seem to be making no progress, suspend training for the day and try again next day.

Selectman Daniel Buckley then spoke explaining he was pinch hitting for Chairman Joseph Greeley.

Buckley said that three articles will be inserted in the Annual Warrant. They are (a) making the Russell Common into a modern parking area, (b) relocating Mystic st. to meet Mass. ave. opposite Pleasant st., (c) the razing of the Old Town Hall.

Want The Best

Town Manager Monahan declared that Arlington is a town of fine services, schools and recreation—fire and police departments, second to none.

"Arlington always has wanted the best. And, I am sure, it will want the shopping facilities the new plans will provide," Monahan said.

Monahan praised the vision of young businessmen in town. "The plans of Mr. Orent is the most dynamic action I've seen since coming to Arlington."

"If you leave it to municipalities to dig themselves out of the morass, you'll wait forever and final bankruptcy. They move so slowly!" said the Manager.

Monahan admitted that the entire project would be costly but that he was confident the necessary money would be found in credit balances plus appropriations by the Town Meeting.

Charles Kent agreed with Forest and said that he would not vote to approve Morine's annual report.

Mrs. Mary Porteus then "came to the defense of the chairman" and said that while she thought his remarks showed a "poor choice of words, he reflected a very said situation here as elsewhere."

"Morine's report spoke of the apathy of voters in selecting qualified School Committee men in Arlington and other communities," a spokesman said later.

It was finally agreed that Forest would meet with Morine to discuss the report and it will be read to the Committeemen over the telephone when amended.

Other items taken up by the Committee included:
A report of Dr. Bert A. Roens regarding a new schedule for academically talented students in Grades 7 through 12.

Roens said that, under the the Town Meeting would be approved. He invited the Chamber and other civic groups to see them, when soon completed.

He revealed that in its latest discussion with the owner of Star Market, the Commission had been told that the area off Route 2, below Lake st., would be developed into a shopping center.

This report negated current belief that the project had been abandoned.

League In Survey

Manager Monahan, in praising the town in having the "best of many things" cited the local chapter of the League of Women Voters as the "best in the United States."

He said that many local improvements had come about through the League's suggestions.

Upon introduction, the League president, Mrs. Kenneth Spengler, said that the organization was conducting a shopping survey under the chairmanship of Mrs. Donald Pettee.

According to Mrs. Pettee, forty women will call on 600 families and housewives to ascertain their shopping habits and, more important, the underlying reasons.

new system, three separate groups will be taught in each major subject. There will be a class for the academically talented, the average student, and the poor student.

"In this way, we will give each youngster a chance to achieve as much as he is capable of doing."

Roens said that the three classes will be scheduled at the same time in each major subject, and that the students may be switched to the higher classifications if their work indicates they are ahead of the rest of the students.

Superintendent of Schools Clifford R. Hall reported on breaks and vandalism at the Hardy School and the Senior High School.

The Committee discussed the possibility of added lighting at the schools and also 24-hour-a-day custodial service. This will be taken up at the next meeting.

Meeting —

Russell Common will mean that there will be entrances to the long-awaited parking lot from Medford st. and Mystic st. Entrance may also be gained, under this plan, from Winslow st.

The discussion regarding the railroad crossing centered on whether the DPU will allow the railroad to eliminate a crossing watchman and thus allow the installation of the automatic signals.

In essence, if the DPU forces the B&M to keep the watchman, then the Town will have to pay for the signal installation.

If the DPU allows automatic signals, the B&M will bear the cost of the signal installation.

In addition, the Selectmen will write to the B&M about the possible purchase of the Lake st. railroad depot from the B&M.

AHS Public Address Damaged By Vandals

For the second time in less than three weeks, an Arlington public school was entered by vandals this weekend.

Superintendent Clifford R. Hall told the School Committee that the vandals short-circuited the public address system, took the pins out of the fire doors, threw trash into an air duct, and entered several rooms at A.H.S.

Hall said that taking the pins out of the fire doors was the "thing that frightens me most."

If any child had tried to open one of those heavy doors, it would have fallen on him and possibly killed him."

The break was discovered Monday morning.

New Year's night, vandals entered the Hardy school and caused some $400 worth of damage.

Ask Dimes Cards

Robert E. Mahoney, chairman of the Arlington March of Dimes Committee, yesterday urged all residents to return their filled Dime Cards to the headquarters "as soon as possible."

The cards were mailed to residents during the first week of January. At the same time, Mahoney announced that the Selectmen had approved the establishment of a "Wishing Well" on the sidewalk in front of Koford's Restaurant for a two-week period.

B.U. PLANS SEMINARS

An unusual approach to the study of the city of Boston, through literature, economics, politics, sociology and art, will be undertaken by the Boston University Evening Division in the second semester when it offers a series of 12 two-hour seminars, according to an announcement by Dr. James F. Baker, director of the Evening Division. The seminars, which will meet on Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. in the Boston University Faculty Club, starting on Wednesday, Feb. 4 and running through April 22.

Conducting the seminars will be five Boston University professors, who in addition to teaching, are active in the community in the areas they will cover. One is George D. Blackwood of Arlington.

Boys Club Reviews '58

During 1958, the Arlington Boy's Club continued to provide a diversified program on a full time basis for more than 1500 boys of which 350 of them journeyed to the clubhouse each day.

New programs activated the installation of an outdoor skating rink; the publication of a brochure which describes the Boys' Club's philosophy, objectives and programs in detail; the origination of a variety class which gives opportunity to all to learn crafts; a grant of $2,000 from the United Community Services which gave us the opportunity to make several major repairs to the building; and finally a stepped up physical fitness program which provides for the physically as well as the mentally and morally sound boy.

Highlights during the year include:

The announcement of Thomas Sheehan as "Good Neighbor" of 1958, Robert Deegan as the "Good Sportsman" of the year and Arthur Stanley "Service Award" winner of 1958.

The Bait Casting Class winning 9 of 15 trophies at the Annual Sportsmen's Show in Boston;

The services rendered to the Boys' Club and to the community by the members of the Leader Corps;

The approval of a new Constitution and By Laws by the members of the Board of Directors providing for a greater number of interested people to become members of the corporation, the success obtained in personal interviews and consultation with problem boys and young men interested in bettering themselves, and above all a better understanding of the purposes and objectives of the Boys' Club by the Adult Citizens of the community as indicated by their interest in visiting the club house frequently.

Major events such as the Father and Son (February 23, 1959), Mother and Son (April) Dinners, Small Fry Days, Fishing Derby, Pet Show, Father and Son Friday Night Bowling, certainly indicate that the Boys' Club is making every effort to provide closer family relationships.

The cooperation, interest and support received from the service clubs, fraternal organizations and civic minded citizens of Arlington is greatly appreciated by the Board of Directors, the members and the staff of the Arlington Boys' Club.

President Francis E. Kenney noted that the Board of Directors and the staff of the Boys' Club will make every effort to provide the best in organized leisure time activities for the youth of our community in 1959.

Mrs. Tracy Killed

The many friends of Mrs. Greta Towne Tracey were shocked to learn of the tragic two-car accident in Weldon, N.C. which brought death on Sunday, December 28th, to her and her husband, James A. Tracey of Branford, Connecticut.

Mrs. Tracey was well known in Arlington as director of the Girl Scouts from 1931 to 1934.

The Branford couple were fatally injured as they were driving home from a Christmas trip to Florida, where they visited Mrs. Tracey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Russell, of St. Petersburg.

The illness of Mrs. Tracey's father was their reason for driving South at this time. Unknown to them both, Mr. Russell also died on Sunday, while they were en route North.

The accident occurred when their car collided with a car carrying four U.S. Marines stationed at Camp Lejeune.

Both were born in Scotland. Mrs. Tracey in Glasgow, and Mr. Tracey in Dalbeattie, Kirkcudbrightshire.

Together, they headed the area lodges of the Scottish Order and Daughters of Scotia.

Greta Towne Tracey began her Girl Scout career in Arlington, serving as Director of the local Girl Scouts for three years from 1931-34.

During this time she also directed the Massachusetts Girl Scout Camp 'Four Winds' at Bourne, Mass.

She left Arlington in 1934 to become executive director of the New Haven, Connecticut Girl Scouts.

In 1944 she retired from professional scouting, but returned to Arlington in 1946 to direct the Arlington Girl Scout Camp at Meredith, N.H.

Since then she has been a very active volunteer with the New Haven Girl Scouts, and has also devoted much of her time to the Daughters of Scotia.

Mrs. Tracey's brother, Mr. Frank Russell of Brandon, Vermont, made the trip to North Carolina to arrange funeral details before going on to St. Petersburg for his father's funeral.

Mr. Russell was formerly associated with Ring Sanatorium, and he, too, is well known in Arlington.

The funeral was held in New Haven on Tuesday, Jan. 6 with burial in Center Cemetery, Branford, Conn.

● THE A.L.A. SAYS — that during 1957, the 79,631,000 persons with a drivers license in the U.S.A. drove an average of 8,070 miles each and a record total of 643 billion miles.

A new law which levies an annual tax of $10 on each amusement device and $250 on each gaming device, regardless of how they are operated, has become effective January 1, 1959.

Mr. Cavanaugh said amusement and gaming devices for which taxpayers have already paid the $10 or the $250 tax for the fiscal year 1959 are not affected by the new law.

However, no refund is allowed on the $50 occupational tax on wagers paid for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959.

Menotomy Pharmacy Offers Service Progress Shows At McKeown Co.

Menotomy Pharmacy, 1332 Massachusetts ave. is owned by Francis G. Peters. Mr. Peters is a native of Stoney Creek, Tennessee.

In October of 1957 he purchased Menotomy Pharmacy from Edward Nicholl, owner and proprietor of the popular drug store for over 20 years. Mr. Nicholl is still associated with the firm.

Many services are offered by Menotomy Pharmacy. One of the most popular is the free pick up of prescriptions and the delivery of the medicines to the home.

Many Arlington Heights residents take advantage of still another service offered here. Gas and Electric bills, and Telephone bills may be paid at Menotomy Pharmacy. Thus the busy housewife can pay her bills while doing her shopping.

Mr. Peters also participates in the "Gift by Wire" program offered by selected drug stores throughout the country. Under this plan the customer chooses a gift from a catalogue. The gift is then delivered by another participating store in the designated community.

Seven Arlington residents are employed by Menotomy Pharmacy. There are three registered pharmacists on duty to handle the prescriptions. Mr. Peters estimates that more than 60% of his total business is handling prescriptions.

James K. McKeown, owner of J. K. McKeown and Sons, has been in the furniture moving business since 1913.

When Mr. McKeown began in the moving business he used horses and wagons. After the automobile was introduced he was one of the first to motorize his business. McKeown and Sons is affiliated with Atlas Long Distance Movers. Their vans have been in every section of the country and have made trips to Canada as well. Ernest and Harold McKeown, two of Mr. McKeown's sons, now manage the business.

Since that time the business has expanded many times. 12 trained men are now employed by Hanson and Tilton. The partners can still do the work if the occasion arises, but their duties consist mainly of managing the operation.

New Career For Murdock Owners

Murdock's Esso Station, 1059 Massachusetts ave., is owned by a father and son team.

In 1952, Mark Murdock was working for Sears-Roebuck. His son, Chuck, was installing auto glass for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

The father and son combination decided that it was time for a change. As Chuck explains it, "We wanted to give it a try in our own business."

They decided to look for a filling station. For Mark it was the beginning of a new career, and he attended the Esso Company school. Chuck Murdock had studied automobiles in school.

Since opening Murdock Esso in 1952, they have spent seven days a week, 52 weeks a year, constantly striving to please their customers.

The results show they are succeeding.

Their Arlington Heights station now does four times as much business as it did in 1952. Each year has shown an increase over the previous year.

Real concern for detail has won the Murdocks many friends. They know that paying attention to little things goes a long way in warding off major problems.

For example, most motorists have anti-freeze put into their cars in preparation for the long winter months. Many of them remember to have their oil changed and the snow tires put on.

But not many car-owners think of having the battery checked.

When the first freeze comes they find the motor dead. But at Murdock Esso all these things are brought to the drivers attention. When winter comes he's prepared.

The station is open from 7:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily at least one Murdock is on duty at all times.

$2,000 To Boys' Club

In a release to the Advocate this week, Executive Director George "Bud" Faulkner announced that the Boys' Club Associates had presented the Boys' Club with a check for $2,018.45 which insures the continuation of the Boys' Club's Arts and Crafts program. Faulkner said that "hundreds of boys have had the opportunity to develop their own natural talents and to learn new ones through the generosity of the B.C.A. who have graciously sponsored these interesting programs from many years."

In addition, the B.C.A. forwarded a $200.00 grant to promote and extend activities in the older boy programs. All boys 14 years and over are invited to attend the judo classes which are under the guidance of a qualified instructor and are being held on Thursday nights at 7:00 p.m.

Officials for varsity basketball games and additional equipment for weight lifting were also provided for by the grant of money.

Money has also been received from the American Legion Post 39 and the Lion's Club for the Boys' Club's annual Christmas Party which was attended by more than 500 boys.

Lately, several parents from the Arlington Heights area have called the club office asking about the possibility of formulating car pools in order that their sons may have greater opportunity to use the facilities.

All adults interested in this program are invited to call the club office.

Tickets for the 15th annual Father and Son Dinner, will go on sale Tuesday, Jan. 27. The Arlington Brotherhood Committee will make its presentation to the Boys' Clubs "Good Neighbor of the Year," at that time.

Ticket sales are limited to 300 and club members are advised to get theirs early to avoid the possibility of being left out.

Woman's Club Sees Dramatic Swiss Film

The first meeting of the new year of the Arlington Women's Club was held on Jan. 8. Mrs. G. Edward Wilkins, vice president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Ross R. Rae.

Mrs. David Govenar, chairman of the Motion Picture and Conservation Committee, introduced John Roberts, co-producer of the film "Switzerland Today."

Mr. Roberts has photographed much material for Lowell Thomas and various Hollywood studios.

In presenting the film, he said, "It's the people who make a country tick, and the film gives a most enlightening and complete portrayal of the life, customs, industry, government and people, as well as, the unusual climate and scenery of this unique country of Switzerland."

John Hallam Ring, baritone, sang selections in French, German and Italian, very appropriately as these are the languages mostly spoken in Switzerland. Mr. Ring is a member of a prominent Arlington family.

Garden Club Notes

A year ago the January meeting of the Garden Club was "snowed out!"

Yesterday a sunny, comfortable day brought a large number of members including the waiting list to the meeting held in Library hall at 2 p.m.

Mrs. John N. Loud presided at the business meeting.

Plans for Valentine gifts for shut-ins and patients at the Nursing homes in Arlington were discussed. This year the club voted not to send the Christmas Baskets as so many gifts were received at that time by the patients. Mrs. Leslie Moriarty and her committee are working to complete plans for distributing remembrances from the Garden Club on Feb. 14.

The Conservation Committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs will hold a meeting on Feb. 2 at Horticulture Hall. Coffee will be served from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. followed by a speaker.

Mrs. Wesley A. McSorley Jr., program chairman, presented colored slides taken by members showing gardens both local and from as far away as Vancouver and Haiti.

Very interesting were slides of Flower Shows both past and as recent as the June show at the Jason Russell House.

Among those whose pictures shown were Mrs. John J. Cox, Mrs. Frank L. Lincoln, Mrs. Frederick O. Johnson, Mrs. Alfred C. Bridgens, Mrs. George Pappas, Mrs. Frank F. Hines, Mrs. Walter Clark and Mrs. Wesley A. McSorley, Jr.
